

Organic Soybean Cake-HP

(from biologically controlled cultivations)

Product No.: DMH-P8

Product description:

Organic soybean cake is a byproduct of the production of organic soybean oil. The hulls are removed from the organic soybeans before the oil pressing commences. The removal of the high fiber hulls increases the protein content and proportionally lowers the content of fiber. Through pressing of the beans an organic soybean cake is produced. The production process does neither include solvents nor any other chemicals, because of this the organic soybean cake has a higher fat content (of up to 8%) compared to an extraction meal. The organic soybean cake is a high energy feed and is mostly used in poultry, pig food or in the milk producing feed industry.
